"THE ULTHATUM" or "Every man has his price", a play in 2 sets by - to be produced at His Majesty's Theatre, on Feb 9th-15.

An original and effective little play. The "Ruler of a Great People" talks with his chiropodist and graciously intinates that he wishes him to serve the wine that evening at dinner when a great discussion is to be made, in recognition of the provertial luck in a hunch-back. The chiropodist soliloquises shall be continue on the path of ambition or by poisoning the Ruler's liquer (1) avenue his parents who suffered in an attempted Revolution and (2) prevent the declaration of war and insensurable miseries? In the next scene the Buler is at dinner and hestitates to sign the declaration of war:ministers professors and relations urge him. The hunch-back chiropidist is about to give him a poisoned lighter when an order is conferred on him and he, delighted, saills the poison and says "let it rip". War is declared.

There is no spect allusion to Germany and I am sure Sir Herbert Tree will not have the bad taste to spoil the play by indicating the Kaiser in make-up etc., It is of no country or period. But the Gramments, especially those of the professor, clearly indicate the mind's of Germany's rulers and are a fair picture of them.

RVERY MAN HAS HES PRICE.

SCRNE - The RULER's marble bathroom in the Palace.

(At the rise of curtain, the RULER of a Great People is discovered seated in his dressinggown; the CHIROPODIST plies his trade.)

CHIROPODIST.

What remarkable corns your Majesty has!

RULER

Yes, they are ancestral - all my predecessors were noted for them.

CHIROPODIST I have heard, your Majesty, that in the seventeenth century many of the Court wore tight shoes in order to cultivate the Royal infirmity - (correcting himself) - prerogative!

RULER

I daresay. Take care - you hurt me.

(CHIROPODIST takes from his tray some drops from a little bottle labellei 'Poison' and applies them with a brush to the royal foot, and resumes his pedicure)

You may continue to address us.

CHIROPODIST

(after a pause, choosing his topic) The weather, your Majesty, is very - very regrettable.

RULER

(with the divine-right manner) Yes, we are much displeased with the weather!

CHIRDPODIST

Yet the peasants have prayed for fine weather for the occasion of your Majesty's name-day.

RULER

The prayers of peasants are not always heard.
To-day is Friday. is it not? I have a superstition against signing important documents on Friday.
To-night it is the Ultimatum. (Bored) Ch. this war! What is the feeling among the people You have leave to speak the truth.

CHIROPODIST

Your Majesty is too gracious. The people, your Majesty, do not wish for war.

RULER

The Minister of War assures me they do.

CHIROPODIST

The people, your Majesty, will regard the decision of their King as the will of God. (Bowing over the royal foot)

RULER

You are a clever fellow. You might go far.

CHIROPODIST

(with momentary expansion) My hump has stood in my light, your Majesty.

RULKR

There is a saying of my great ancestor, "It is lucky to have a hundhback near you".

CHIROPODIST

Yes, your Majesty, the common proverb says: "A hump is a misery to him who hath it, but it fills him of the straight back with contentment.

RULES

We all have our compensations.

CHIROPODIST

Yes, your Majesty, my mother always had a premonition that before I died a great honour would be conferred on me.

RULER

I shouldn't wonder. By the by, I should like to keep you near me to-night. Your hump may bring me luck. I have to make a momentous decision. Now listen to me. I trust you - you have availed yourself of my permission to be truthful. I do not trust all my servants. Will you look to the wine to-night"

(THE CHIROPODIST cringes assent)

The royal Dukes and my Ministers are to dine at my table. Be near me to-night, my little hunch-back.

(THE CHIROPODIST kisses the royal toes in loop obelsance. THE RULER OF A GREAT PROPLE EXITS to his dressing-room. THE CHIROPODIST rises) CHIROPODIST

It has come - the day, their day, my day! God of my fathers, keep me from madness. Mother, hold my hand from out of your grave! You said it should be! My hunger can be stilled - I can almost straighten my back with pride. (He crosses himself beneath the image of the Virgin) Help me in my hour. There are two roads - which shall I take? I have learned to flatter - it is my profession - I have walked across the plank - I am there - my ambition, my little ambition can be requited. I have blackmailed the world - I am in its palace. The open road is in front of me at last. I can move step by step, as others have done, nearer the throne - and then, who knows But there is another road 9 - the road where humanity toils or truiges - the road my father and mother trod when I was a little child. It was the revolution - my mother was torn from my father's arms - before his eyes she was degraded by the soldiery - then they shot him for an anarchist. This himp of mine - a soldier struck me with his gun - my shoulder shattered. In our exile every night my mother would stroke my back while she prayed that God would straighten me. She starved that she might sprinkle my hump with hpky water. And here I am what I am. This is my moment - shall I fall to ease, to comfort, and convenience" I whose father shrinked for freedom as he fell. This war can prevent it. I see it coming on - I am not blind as those that make war - war for the vanity of a King, who made God in his own image. War for greed of cormerce. Hundrads, thousands, millions of lives will be lost to satisfy the lust of five men! Can five hundred years of happiness compensate for one year's spoil of a monarch's sport" An Emperor of the Shambles declares war to make a madman's holiday. I can hear the yells of the poor deluied men in the trenches - they call it glory! I can see their stark bodies mangled and twisted in the frozen mud - they call it glory! I can smell the stench of their decay wafting disease through the land in the spring that is coming - they call it glory! I can read the outpourings of their hiroling professors. I hear Christ's priests chanting their blessings on the holocausts - they call it glory! The moans of millions of mothers go up to God, unheeded by man. My mind is a mirage of rulned cathedrals, of devastated homes, of spectres of famished peoples - all these I see - they call it glory! My little hand can stay all this. (He takes from his box the little bottle labelled 'Poison') Here is my ally - a few drops of this in his liqueur to-night, and it is done. (He tastes the poison) Ravenge is sweet! I shall be the undying benefactor of mankind. After all, he is only one man, like myself. He who cuts the corns of a monarch knows the equality of man. Nurder - yes. To kill one man is to be a murderer - to kill ten thousand is to be a hero! Strange is the logic of the world! What is he then who murders one to save millions" (He takes up his paraphernalia and EXITS)

(The SCRNE changes to the private dining-room of the great RULER. Seated round the table are PRINCES, CARINET MINISTERS, A PROFESSOR, and A PRIEST. It is the end of dinner. There are signs of debauchery. THE RUBER, steeped in wine, gazes before him with pale eyes. Papers are in front of him and an ink-stand, into which he dips his pen irresolutely. The clock strikes twelve)

WAR MINISTER

At twelve the decision was to be given - it has already struck.

A PRIMCE

Octavian, sign.

(THE RULER hesitates and takes a liqueur from the hands of the now resplendent CHIROPODIST)

PRIME MINISTER

It is time to sign, your Majesty.

RUKER

I am thinking.

PRIME MINISTER A King should never think, your Majesty, when he knows his power. It is two minutes past the hour - history is rushing by. You are two minutes less powerful than you were at midnight.

WAR MINISTER

Might is right.

RULER

Is Might always right (Turning to elderly Priest) Father, you have often told me that the true divine right of kings is peace. What did you say in your sermon during the Peace Conference? If the sacred head of the State were to pronounce himself to the world as the leader of Peace - if he will declare himself - if he will proclaim that the highest prerogative of kings - that their true

45

Divine right is universal peace - if in his greatness he will carry this ideal into effect, then he will go down the centuries not only as King of his land, not only as Emperor of the globe, but as the temporal saviour of markind. Those were your words, father - Surely God is good.

PRIRST

Yes, your Majesty, very good. But now we are talking war. The heeds of your people sanctify the sacrifice of your ideals.

RULER

I am wondering, at what point a King is justified for the sake of his country in sacrificing his ideals. (He takes another liquour)

PRIEST

His conscience must decide.

PROFESSOR

Ideals are only pfficial ideals when they have congrate foundations. Ideals must be backed by cannon, or left alone. With all submission to your Majesty, man is but a brute - we all devour each other if we can. Our rivals are sunk in the sloth of what is called humanitarianism. The new religion of so-called thinkers and feelers threatens to become a force which may so miseducate the masses, that the worksin of the world may sweep away our own Culture of intellectual materialism by a universal strike for peace. This new movement, whose praise is being sung by poets and seers, must be throttled before its growth shall have become a menace to our fatherland. Already the people are singing the hymne of the new religion of humanity in secret places. Socialism is rife in our land. Now is the moment to crush it for a hundred years and so preservo the ancient dynasty of which your Majesty is God's chosen head, and secure the supremacy of our race.

(Great cheers ring out from the Square from many thousand voices. Here and there angry imprecations too are heard. The cheers come nearer and nearer and the jingle-jingle of approaching cavalry is heard below)

HULKR

Are they chooring men

MINISTERS & PRINCES (surrounding the HULER) They are cheering the war. They are cheering the Prince - he waves his hand to them.

RULER

Ingrates - is my popularity then waning"

PRIME MINISTRE (his watch in hand) You are twelve minutes and fifteen seconds less popular than you were at midnight, your Majesty.

RULER

(twisting the quill pen in his hand) That is

PRIEST

Vox populi, Vox Dei!

WAR MINISTER It is the voice of the Army!

(The royal DURNS AND MINISTERS, PRIEST AND PROFESSOR surround the HULRE, cajoling, flattering and brow-boating him in turn. A military band blares out the National Hymn in which a hundred thousand voices join. RULEE takes the pen once more; nerving himself to the great effort, he beckens to the CHIROPCDIST, who makes to serve the liqueur)

CHIROPODIST

Now is my moment! (Taking from his pooket the little bottle labelled 'Poison', he is about to pour itminto the glass when a royal D'RE approaches him with something glittering in his hand)

ROYAL DUNK

(TO CHIROPCDIST) In recognition of your valuable services His Majesty desires me to confer upon you the order of the Golden Lamb, of the second class. (Pins decoration on his breast)

CHIROPODIST

(Overcome, mechanically, as in a dream, he classes the bauble in his hand, then hesitates, gasping) O Mother, Mother!

RULER

It is war!

CHIROPODIST

Let it rip! (He spills the poison on the floor)

(THE RULER OF A GREAT PROPIN signs the Ultimatum. THE CHIRDPODIST shrugs his hump.)

THE CURTAIN FALLS.
